Crosstex acquires Accutron

Cantel Medical Corp subsidiary, Crosstex, continues its market diversification and expansion with the acquisition of Accutron Inc., an industry-leading manufacturer of ‘conscious sedation’ nitrous oxide delivery systems and nasal masks.

Crosstex marketing network, Accutron’s firm believe that by coming together as one sales & marketing team, we can increase the understanding and expand the use of conscious sedation in dentistry.”

Andrew Whitehead, senior vice president of business development, said, “Crosstex is a market innovator in conscious sedation and the safety and comfort of the patient have always been the focus of our company. From the very beginning we strived to be the market leader and the continued utilization and professionalism of the PSA sales team, we can expand our portfolio and the markets it serves — all directly related to improving and enhancing the patient experience as it relates to conscious sedation, patient safety and comfort. In the past 18 months we have acquired and become the market leader in dental unit waterlines with the acquisitions of DentaPure and Liquid Ultra, entered the industrial market with the acquisition of the NAMSA sterility assurance products division, and have now entered the small-equipment/conscious sedation market with the acquisition of Accutron.”

“Conscious sedation and the safety and comfort of the patient have always been the focus of our company. From the very beginning we strived to be the market leader and market innovator in conscious sedation technology” said Accutron vice president of sales & marketing Jonathan Blasdell. “We firmly believe that by coming together as one and combining the strengths of the Crosstex marketing network, Accutron’s technology and manufacturing capabilities, and the continued utilization and professionalism of the PSA sales team, we can bring increased awareness to our existing portfolio of infection prevention, safety and compliance products.”
