The General Dental Council is holding a consultation on Student Fitness to Practise guidance. The aim of the guidance is to ensure that dental practitioners are fit to practice and that their fitness to practice is monitored. The consultation will run for six weeks and will be open to all members of the public. The consultation is set to close on 26 May. For more information, please visit gdc-uk.org.

Magic methods
Read how an operation which took two hours and 50 minutes to insert mini-implants into a patient’s mouth was edited down to three minutes.

We want commitment’ say campaigners
He added: ‘The survey will show us where the dental decay is and then we can think about the best way of dealing with it. There are a number of ways of dealing with dental decay such as tooth brushing. We always have fluoridation in mind but it is one of a number of options.’

So far the PCT has not formally discussed fluoridation. If it decides to go ahead, the East of England Strategic Health Authority will hold a public consultation on the issue.

Price rise
The government is to increase the cost for simple and intermediate dental treatment but complex dental treatment will be frozen at the existing rate. Health Minister Alan Johnson, announcing the new rates, said: ‘The key to ensuring that the NHS in England will increase by up to £1.50. The cost of simple treatments involving examinations, advice, X-rays or a scale and polish will go up from £18.20 to £18.50. The charge for intermediate treatments, such as fillings or extractions, will rise from £44.90 to £45.60. However the maximum charge for complex NHS dental treatments, such as the fitting of crowns, bridges or dentures, will be frozen at the existing rate of £198.

Star levels
Denplan has won the Best Companies Three Star Accreditation for employee engagement for the fourth year running. The star rating accreditation scheme is run by Best Companies, the organisation behind the Sunday Times list of 100 Best Companies to Work For. Steve Gates, managing director of Denplan, called the award a ‘real testament to the organisation behind the Denplan team here at Denplan, which continually goes that extra mile and rises to new challenges.
