SOMETHING TO SMILE ABOUT: Minimal Intervention At the British Society of Cosmetic Dentistry’s eighth annual Congress, held at the Hilton London Metropolitan Hotel from 16-12 November 2011. The following year, no exceptions in terms of opportunities for quality learning, with many first-rate CPD courses and limited numbers hands-on workshops on offer for the whole dental team. A wealth of local and international speakers ensured that the world-class event centred on the latest trends in conservative cosmetic and restorative dentistry. Delegates will be able to follow a number of cases with step by step instructions for successful treatment. The conference will also give dental professionals the chance to network with peers and mix with many thought leaders from within dentistry, especially at the Gala dinner which is sure to be another glittering gala.

FenderWedge®Prep

The evolutionary wedge that protects adjacent teeth now available for larger preparations. Stockholm, Sweden February 28, 2011 - The Swedish dental company Directa AB introduces FenderWedge® Prep for larger preparation and uses a combined wedge and plate that together prevents contact between the bar and the adjacent tooth during preparation. It can be used in all cases of proximal preparations to protect adjacent tooth and gingiva.

FenderWedge®Prep is narrow at the front with a rounded boat-shape tip that allows it to be inserted into narrow proximal spaces while compressing the gingiva without harming it. Insertion may be buccal or lingual. The plate is designed to ensure the occlusal plane is maintained so that it forms firmly against the adjacent tooth to be protected. This provides for a faster and safer preparation with optimal finishing, thus very time efficient. FenderWedge®Prep is ideal for all larger preparations such as crowns, veneers and bridgework.
